Summary

I am currently taking Bachelor of Science in Information Technology at the University of Camarines Norte. I have a diverse set of skills ranging from web and graphic design, HTML, CSS, JavaScript, including SEO optimization all the way to node.js and its frameworks for backend and fullstack development. I am very passionate about learning different programming languages and technologies that I know I can use for my future work and projects. I have experience in freelancing in web development and still learning things to grow in the tech industry.
